

Sean Delehanty
Principal Engineer, Energy Management
BAE SYSTEMS, Greenlawn NY

Sean has an extensive background in Manufacturing Engineering and is now the Principal Engineer for BAE Systems Energy Management operating group wide, Sustainability Initiative. During the course of his career, Sean has established efficient electronics manufacturing facilities, working in India, China, Italy, France and Mexico. Always interested in cost reduction and conservation, Sean has streamlined numerous processes and contributed many energy conserving and other “green” ideas to a number of companies. Sean has 30 years experience with facilities and over five years experience in energy management.